

1919 GREAT LABOUR
REVOLT CENTENNIAL COMMEMORATION

October 11 and 12, 2019

Ukrainian Centre, 11018-97
Street, Edmonton

The Alberta Labour History Institute is hosting a free Thanksgiving weekend workshop in Edmonton to commemorate the international workers' rising of 1919, whose best known Canadian manifestation was the Winnipeg General Strike. It also included month-long general strikes in Edmonton and Calgary and a much longer shutdown of most of the province's 42 coal mines, though few Albertans know about workers' radical past in our province.

While all events are free, our need to purchase sufficient food for attendees and to ensure that we are not overtaxing the capacity of the Ukrainian Hall means that only those who pre-register will be considered eligible to attend. Just write to ALHI president Alvin Finkel at finkel@telusplanet.net to indicate that you plan to attend and whether you will be present on both October 11 and 12 or just one or the other.

Also please indicate if you will require daycare since we can only provide childcare for those who have let us know in advance that they require it.

Please pass this message on to all your friends and fellow workers via e-mail, social media, or word of mouth.

In solidarity,

Alvin Finkel,

President,

Institute
